Professor G. W. Johnston,

University College.

Dear Professor Johnston:

I myself saw the close of the scrap last Tuesday and was very much shocked with what I saw, and I got the names of some who participated in it. However, that afternoon there was a prompt and unsolicited apology handed in and signed by those who took part in it. They have promised not to repeat the offense, and the Students' Council is undertaking to do their utmost to forestall such occurrences in the future. I hope that this may be the last of this kind of thing. It seems to me that the students themselves have felt the gravity of it, and if they undertake to prevent it in the future, that is our best guarantee of their success.

Yours sincerely,

President.
